An ice storm Sunday and Monday caused considerable damage about town. Limbs of trees were strewn all along the streets and many wires were broken down. Lovejoy began the work of clearing away the fallen limbs at an early hour Monday morning. The sun shining on the ice coated trees made a beautiful scene. Amateur photographers were out in force, taking pictures of the crystal foliage but few of the resulting photographs came up to expectations.

Cuban Industrial Relief.

Clinton Ross Gale gave an interesting lecture on Cuba at the Old South church, Tuesday evening. He came to Andover in the interests of the Cuban Industrial Relief Association. Rev. Frederic Palmer and John N. Cole made short addresses explaining the pressing need of generous relief for Cuba at this critical period in her history.

The plan for relief is ably set forth in the following clipping and is worthy of consideration:

"The plan for industrial relief in Cuba, proposed by Mr. William Willard Howard, meets with our sincere approval and cordial commendation. The rehabilitation of the working population of Cuba as a self-supporting people is a responsibility that is clearly laid upon the United States by the results of the late war; and whether sought or thrust upon us by circumstances, it is a responsibility that must be accepted.

The introduction of measures calculated to re-establish these people in their regular work, in place of measures for temporary relief—undoubtedly necessary in many cases, but full of danger to the beneficiaries—would seem to be the only plan that promises permanent results.

The opportunity of securing the services of two men who have successfully conducted a relief enterprise on similar lines in Armenia— Mr. William Willard Howard, agent of the Armenian Relief Association, and the Rev. Herbert M. Allen, missionary of the American Board at Van, Turkey, Mr. Howard's chief associate in Armenian relief, and now in this country—is providentially offered at this critical period for Cuba, and, indeed, for America.

We trust that all who have at heart the best interests of the sufferers in Cuba, will give to the Cuban Industrial Relief Fund abundant and speedy financial support, so that the work proposed may be practically undertaken without delay. Lyman Abbott, C. H. Parkhurst, Edward Judson, Henry Van Dyke, John W. Chadwick, Charles H. Paine.

Last Comrade of Lopez.

TROY, Pa.—Augustus A. Pomeroy, the 76-year-old court crier of this town, is said to be the last survivor of the last expedition led to Cuba by Narciso Lopez. Of an adventurous spirit, he early became a wanderer, and when barely past his majority found himself in New Orleans on his way overland to the newly discovered gold fields of California. There his money gave out, and with a companion Harry McDonald by name, he took up the trade of house-painting, which he followed until his love of adventure made him a member of the expedition.

"Lopez" said Mr. Pomeroy, "was not a Cuban. He was born in Venezuela, and for many years was a general in the Spanish army performing service in Cuba. In course of time, by reason of his popularity with the Cubans and his American origin, he fell into disfavor with the Spanish authorities, and in the end was removed from his post and dismissed from the army. That was in 1848, and, smarting under the injustice done him, he at once devoted himself to the cause of Cuban freedom. The first uprising planned by him came to nothing, owing to the treachery of a rich Cuban, who, afraid of losing his property gave information of it to the authorities. Lopez made his escape to the United States, but many of his associates were arrested. The Spanish captain-general treated them with great leniency, and they were released after a brief imprisonment. When Lopez fled from the island he made his way to New Orleans. Here at once set about the organization of an expedition, and, although entirely without financial aid from Cuba, in less than two years he succeeded, with funds furnished by Louisiana planters, who were secretly anxious to have the island annexed to the United States as a slave-holding colony, in organizing a force of 600 men, which left New Orleans in May, 1850, in the American ship Creole. The landing of this expedition, which was officered partly by Americans, was made at Cardenas, on the north coast, and although this place was fairly well garrisoned, no opposition was made and at the end of a few hours the governor of the place surrendered. But the native Cubans failed to come to the support of Lopez, and after holding Cardenas for a day, he determined to re-embark, intending to land at some other point on the island. This plan fell through, owing to the pursuit of the Creole by a Spanish warship and a lack of discipline among the invaders. In the end the expedition disbanded at Key West, and its ship and boats were confiscated by our authorities.

"In no way discouraged, Lopez returned to New Orleans, and immediately set afoot plans for another descent on the Cuban coast. My friend McDonald and I attended some of the meetings, and soon made up our minds to join the expedition, which in its final shape embraced a motley collection of Cubans, Hungarians, Germans, and Americans. Among the last were many Kentuckians, and these had for a leader Col. Will Crittenden, past question the bravest man I have ever known. Lopez himself was then about 60 years old, with long hair and flowing beard, both snowy white, piercing black eyes and erect military bearing, and of charming address.

"No attempt was made to conceal the plans of the expedition, and when it was ready to sail it got away without delay or misadventure. On the night of Aug. 3, 1851, the steamer Pampero left her dock at New Orleans, drifted out into the Mississippi, and headed for the Gulf. On board the Pampero were 480 men and a good supply of arms and am munition. A few days later we touched at Key West where news was received that there had been a fresh uprising in Cuba, and that our coming was eagerly awaited by the insurgents, and where we also took on board a pilot for the remainder of the voyage. Various causes have been given for the speedy failure of the expedition, but it was due in the main to the tretchery of the pilot. He promised Lopez to land him among friends, but instead guided the Pampero to a part of the island swarming with Spaniards.

On the evening of the eighth day after leaving New Orleans we effected a landing at Playtas, a small coast hamlet to the west of Havana, but so near to that city that the captain-general found it an easy matter to concentrate a force of 4000 soldiers to oppose us. For a moment we were ignorant of our whereabouts and Lopez as he stepped on shore fell on his knees and kissed the earth saying, 'Nuerida Cuba,'—Beloved Cuba! The men as they came on shore found temporary shelter in a group of tobacco sheds near the water front, but we had landed only a part of our ammunition and baggage, when a Spanish warship steamed up from the east and began an attack in the face of which the Pampero hastily put to sea and we saw her no more. Meanwhile Lopez with about 300 of his men had started inland, marching toward Las Pozas, a small village twelve miles away. McDonald and I went as members of his men were left behind as a rear guard, and it was not until long after that we learned the story of their unhappy fate. Crittenden's first move after we parted company with him was to seek the shelter of some deserted buildings about a mile and a half from shore and out of range of the Spanish gunboat. Then marching slowly inland he was met and engaged next day by a force of 500 Spaniards. Crittenden and his men, taking advantage of the chapparal, fought with stubborn valor, and when they finally fell back, left thirty men dead on the field. They retreated to a deserted building, intending to make a second stand there, but seeing the hopelessness of their position, finally resolved to get out of the island as best they could. Accordingly Crittenden sent out scouts to the east and west to gather in all the boats they could find. Fifteen boats were got together after long searching, and in these, scantily provisioned, they set sail for the Florida coast. They had not gone far, however, before they were overhauled by the Spanish steamer Habanero, and compelled to surrender. They were landed at Havana, and bravely admitting that they were filibusters, were tried by drum-head court-martial and sentenced to be shot. This sentence was executed on the Punta, the open parade ground opposite Morro Castle, on the morning of August 16, 1851. Crittenden exhorted his men to be brave and die like heroes, telling them that they were laying down their lives for liberty and sowing seed of which the future would reap the fruit. When ordered to kneel by his executioners, he refused to do so, proudly declaring 'We Kentuckians kneel to one but God!' And so, erect and smiling, he met death, like the lion hearted hero he was.

"Gen. Lopez had reached a place called Murillo, when he was met and charged upon by a large body of the enemy. Although we finally drove the Spaniards off with a loss of about 200 men, we ourselves lost thirty-five men killed and as many wounded. These wounded men we were compelled to leave behind when we continued our march towards Las Pozas, and they were all murdered by the Spaniards. On August 24 while in camp at Las Frias we were attacked by 1300 Spanish troops, and although outnumbered six to one, inflicted heavy loss upon and in the end, drove off our assailants. But up to this time not a single Cuban had come to our aid, and after another fight at Las Pozas, Gen. Lopez, seeing the hopelessness of the struggle, called a council of war and tearfully informing us that we were no longer bound to follow his broken fortunes, urged us to seek safety by scattering in the mountains until we could find some way to get back to the United States. Then bidding us farewell he struck off with a handful of followers into the hills. There he wandered, evading arrest, until one morning while at breakfast, in the house of one of his sympathisers, he was surprised and captured. Taken to Havana, he was sentenced as a criminal to the garote and executed on the parade ground at Morro Castle.

"Scarcely had Lopez taken leave of his men when a large body of Spaniards surrounded the greater portion of them and took 160 prisoners. The men thus captured were sent to hard labor in the mines of Spain, where many of them died. Those who survived were afterwards released through the efforts of President Fillmore. My friend McDonald and I managed to escape capture and made our way as fast as we could to the foothills that border Mount Guay abayjou, the highest peak in western Cuba. Hurrying onward despite the midsummer heat of the tropics we soon reached its base and began to climb the great mountain. On one shoulder of it half hid by the trees, a mass of ruins gleamed white in the sunlight. It was the deserted convent of Murrillo, and toward it we made our way. We knew all to well that if discovered our lives would not be worth a moment's ransom and we hped to find a hiding place in the old convent until we could contrive some plan for making our escape from the island.

"Part way up the mountain we sat down to rest and to make a meal from the small supply of food we had contrived to bring with us. The woods had grown thinner as we ascended, and our resting place commanded an immense landscape half veiled in a thin mist, but offering views of great beauty. To the north we could faintly behold the sea, and to the east a slight brown cloud behind which lay Havana. Of a sudden we were aroused by a crashing in the brush. It proved to come from a drove of native hogs, and we laughed heartily at the alarm it had given us. But a moment later, as the sun drove the clouds away, we discovered a flock of vultures circling over the dense woods, attracted by some dead body. The sight again aroused us to the peril of our position, and, tired as we were, we pushed hastily on toward the old convent, reaching it, without further alarm, just befor nightfall.

"We found it a big stone building fast falling into ruin, with grass and weeds choking the neglected gardens, and showed us that it had long been deserted-[illegible] Careful inspection was asserted, and as soon as darkness had fallen we retired into one of the rooms and there built a small fire with which to cook our rations and dry our clothes. Nothing disturbed our rest that night, and for three weeks or more we made the old convent our abode, sallying forth each day in search of such food as lay to hand in the berries, fruits and game of the mountain side. These became scarce after a time ,and when we found a mule at the edge of the forest wes hot it, cut it up and transported it to our headquarters. Mule's flesh is not the most palatable food in the world, but hunger gives one a ken appetite. One of our trips into the woods gave us a bad quarter-hour, for, startled by a strange, rustling noise, we glanced up and saw a few feet ahead of us, gliding through the brush and fallen trees, a serpent almost twenty feet long and as thick as a man's leg. McDonald, who had read up on Cuba before going there, said it mas a "maja," and not poisonous, but I told him I had just as lief be killed by a snake as scared to death by one. For several nights thereafter I would awake each night and imagine that I heard in the darkness the crawling rustle of one of these monsters.

"Whenever we saw anyone approaching our hiding place we contrived by whoops and other blood-curdling noises to so alarm the intruders that the ruins retained the reputation they had long had of being haunted. One night a number of natives, led by a small party of soldiers, visited the convent, but we treated them to such a chorus of shrieks and groans that they fled in haste and idi not return. This incident, however, served to make clearer to us our peril, and quickened our resolution to make a desperate effort to get out of the island. So, getting together a week's supply of jerked mule meat and fruit, we left the convent one morning, and started down the mountain to the coast.

"From our hiding place we had daily seen vessels moving along in the distance, and we had harly got clear of the mountain when, to our great joy, we discovered a large fruit ship evidently preparing to sail. Hurrying to the shore we found a yawl drawn up on the beach and at once concluded that its crew had gone into some nearby village to pick up stragglers and get them on board. Seizing the opportunity thus presented to us, McDonald and I stowed ourselves under the small decked portions at either end of the boat and waited the return of the sailors. They came an hour or two after dark, bringing with them several stragglers, and all so far gone in their cups that they nevere noticed the addition to their load. Swearing, singing and whooping, they started for the ship, and had got a mile or more from shore before they discovered us. When they did they pulled us out by the legs, demanded an explanation and threatened to throw us overboard, but instantly relented when we told our story, and swore they would do all they could for us.

"The captain of the ship—the fruiter Fairchild, bound for New Orleans—at first refused to take us on board, fearing trouble with the Spanish gunboats, but he, too, grew more merciful when our desperate plight was fully revealed to him, and an hour later we had seen our last of Cuba. McDonald, my comrade, was stabbed to death in a quarrel soon after we reached New Orleans, and I doubt not that of the 480 men who went with Lopez to Cuba I am the only one now living."

One of His Downs.

(From the Chicago Tribune.)

"See that man—that one with the silk lined, tenor-singing overcoat with the high collar and bulls-eye diamond in his shirt front? Well, whenever I see him the vissisitudes of life in a large city like Chicago are brought vividly to my mind."

The speaker and his companion were standing in a downtown buffet after theatre hours and were having a parting nip before boarding the last regular car. In another part of the buffet stood a jolly crowd of sporty looking men resplendant in first water jewelry, cracking the necks of of bottles as fast as the waiters could furnish them. In the centre of this group stood the prosperous-looking to whom reference had been made. He seemed to be the "angel" of the party, doing all the buying and refusing to let his comrades spend a cent.

"Now that same richly dressed sport and wine buyer was in this same place a year ago with just such another party and on that occasion he was not the 'angel'," continued the speaker.

"I was in the party myself that time and the corks popped then just as they are doing now. But the sport didn't do any of the popping. Nor did he wear such garments as he now does. As for jewelry, he was as free from it as a pig is of feathers. I watched him somewhat more attentively than I would under crdinary circumstances, for the reason that he did not seem to enjoy the blow-out. His conduct seemed strange, and although his appearance clearly indicated that he had not fallen up against such a snap for moons yet he had to be pleaded with almost every time a fresh quart was stunned before he would empty his goblet.

"A pained expression would scurry aross his face very time a fresh order was given and a five-spot would be transferred to the hand of the waiter. He was sitting next to me and finally afther a dozen or so of bottles had been disposed of by the high rollers he leaned over to me and whispered:

"This is about as tough an experience as I ever went through. I can't stand it any longer," and he made a move as if to get up and leave. I looked at him in surprise and then asked him what was the matter.

"Why, can't you see?" he replied. "Look at my face.'

"I did so and noticed that it was drawn and pinched. His eyes, too still retained their lack-lustre appearance, although he had surrounded a good dozen glasses of the grape flow. I then thought the man was sick and offered at once to go to a drug store for him or summon a physician but he shook his head in a shame-faced, despondent sort of way, and with a sigh placed his lips to my ear and whispered:

"Damn it, man, can't you see that I am starving? See the money Frank is blowing in at $4 a quart while I am really suffering for the want of a square meal. I can get all of the costly wine I can drink, but not a bite to eat. That's why I call my experience tough."

"Of course, we soon had our hungry companion in front of a twin porterhouse, half a dozen big baked potatoes, a dish piled high with hot biscuits and a big pot of coffee. And he did justice to it, too. Whenever I see him I can't help but think of the time I was in the company of a man who could swell his waist band on rare wines but couldn't get a bite to eat. But that's life in a large burgh especially in the ranks of the up-and-down sport.

THE LATEST IN NECKWEAR.

(From the Washington Post.)

There are some very pretty and very new things in cravats. One of these, with an ordinary stock collar neckband, fastening at the back, had hanging down the front a box plait, studded at intervals with pearl or cut crystal buttons. It was a kind of a shirt plait straight down the front to the waist. In one case the box plait was flanked by a frill of lace, this enlarged the cravat into a charming kind of front to slip over a simple blouse when a coat and skirt are being worn. This cravat is good either in soft satin or in checked ribbon or silk.

Sailor cravats are worn edged with fringe and formed of either silk or lace. Lace edged with fine cream silk fringe is simply charming. All transparent decorations such as lace or shifton, have their edge finished by something solid, chenille or baby ribbon or fringe or ruching, it matters not what so long as the edge is emphasized, and thus gains a rippling outline.

A front of white mousseline de soie spotted was worked over in a sort of serpentine fashion in and out of the spots with chenille. The notion was very good and gave the mousseline a richness and importance most becoming

Colored velvet collairs in sharp contrasting shades are very much in evidence in the best stores. Some of these have on them 20 or 25 lines of machine stitching. Fitting tightly to the neck, they have a lining of fine but firm French canvas, and rise at the side in a square, not pointed, tab.

The boa is one of the handsomest spring novelties. One is of rose colored satin, closed in front beneath two rosettes. A flounce of black mousseline de soie bordered with black velvet form a collarette and falls in front in the form of a boa. Similar plaitings are set inside the collar and form a becoming frame to the face. The other large piece forms not only a cravat but a bolero front or vest. It is of ribbed silk and closes with three crystal buttons.

Of the other two models, one is of black plaited mousseline de soie held by two bands of cream colored satin fastened by two buttons, the other of mirror velvet with points set on the lower edge.

IT'S TOO EARLY YET FOR BATHING DRESS JOKES.

"I notice that the ladies' gowns are longer this winter than last, and trail on the ground," remarked the observant boarder.

"That is in accordance with the law of averages," replied the cross-eyed boarder.

The KLONDIKE & BOSTON GOLD MINING & MFG. CO. has acquired by purchase and by right of location the greatest aggregation of Placer Mining Claims ever owned by any one company in Alaska,—50 claims in all, or 1,000 acres of the choicest placer ground on some of the richest creeks, guiches and old river beds yet discovered in Alaska. The securing of this grand collection of mines required the services of twenty-three (23) Mining Experts and Assistants, and consumed over twelve months' time, besides an expenditure of $40,000 for supplies and equipment in connection therewith, and to-day the company has forty (40) good men (under contract), digging gold from these claims, which number will be increased to one hundred (100) as soon as the right men can be secured and sent to the mines. In addition to this extensive mining property, the company owns three (3) staunch Steamboats expressly designed and built for the company's private use on the Yukon river and other sections of Alaska, in transporting its men, provisions and equipment to the mines, shipping out gold, etc., thus being independent of any transportation company. The Company also owns the Canadian Patent Rights of the Reed Dry Placer Machine for extracting gold from gravel without the use of water, the greatest invention of the age, as by its use gold can be extracted in Alaska every day in the year. Each machine does the work of ten (10) men, at the cost of one, and will save from 25 to 50 per cent more gold than by the old method.

FIFTY TONS OF KLONDIKE GOLD worth $35,000,000 is the estimated clean-up of the Klondike region this year, and hundreds and thousands of people are making fortunes by investing in Alaska mines and stocks, and among the hundreds who have made fortunes this year are Mr. N. J. Pickett, $200,000; Mr. Peter Wyird, $50,000; Mr. John Lee, $200,000; Mr. Tommy Blake, $50,000; Mr. Charles Randall, $64,000; and Mr. D. W. Donovan, $45,000. If these men could make such large fortunes with crude appliances, what may The Klondike & Boston Gold Mining & Mfg. Co. expect with forty (40) men working with the most modern appliances? With no better result per man the earnings would amount to over $4,000,000, or a dividend of $4.00 on each share of the entire capital stock, which would make it intrinsically worth at least $40 per share, while the same stock can be purchased to-day for only $1.00 per share. The Calumet & Hecla Mining Stock once sold for $1.00 a share, but it is worth to-day $575 per share and the company has paid over $50,000,000 in dividends to date.

This is the PEOPLE'S Opportunity.

Everybody wanting to make money should invest in the stock of The Klondike & Boston Gold Mining & Mfg. Co., before it is advanced in price or withdrawn from sale. If you buy now you will come in on the first allotment of stock, the ground floor price, and will have three (3) sources of profit,—all dividends earned from mining, royalties on Placer Machines, and every advance in value of shares, which should amount to at least $5.00 to $10.00 per share within a few months.

REMEMBER the stock costs to-day only $1.00 per share and that it covers 50 Alaska Mining Claims, all equipment, three Steamboats, Reed Dry Placer Machines, and every other source of profit.

Don't fail to send at once for Prospectus, Reports, Photographs and Map, which will be forwarded upon application. Make all remittances for stock payable to the Company's Financial Agents,

It must be a great blow to the feminine admirers of Lord Kitchener to learn that he has a glass eye. A Cambridge photographer is said to have made this discovery from the peculiar reflective powers of the artificial optic. If Lord Kitchener has so remarkable a "store eye" that it remained for a photographer to discover that it was not real, there will be a demand for the address of the optician who furnished it or for a course of instruction from Lord Kitchener on the proper way of managing one.

ONE DAY'S SUGGESTIONS.
(By Mrs. Elisabeth H. Clay.)

BREAKFAST—Apples. Oatmeal, Cream and Sugar. Cold Sliced Ham. Baked Potatoes. Cream Toast. Doughnuts Coffee.

DINNER—Tomato Soup. Broiled Beefsteak. Mashed Potatoes. Oyster Roll. Pork Pudding. Orange Jelly. Coffee.

OYSTER ROLL.

Cut a round piece out of the top of a well-baked loaf of bread about an inch thick, remove the inside of the loaf, leaving crust an inch thick; then make a rich oyster stew and put a little of it in the cavity in the loaf, then a layer of bread crumbs, then oysters, then of stew and then of crumbs and keep on until the loaf is full; put the round piece of bread back in its place, and glaze the loaf over with the beaten yolk of an egg, bake in a hot oven for a few minutes. Serve very hot.

PORK PUDDING.

Chop one cup of salt pork fine, add two cups of sugar, two cups of sweet milk, two cups of chopped raisins, one teaspoonful each of cloves, cinnamon and nutmeg, one teaspoonful of saleratus sifted into these and one-half cup of flour. Steam three hours and serve with lemon sauce.

ORANGE JELLY.

Cut a hole in the top of as many oranges as you intend serving people at dinner. With a spoon remove carefully all pulp of the orange, taking care not to break the skin. Then use the juice in preparing some gelatine, sweeten to taste, and after the gelatine gets cool and a little stiff pour into the orange shells which you have prepared; set in a cold place to harden. Just before serving, cut the orange skin in quarters half way down and separate a little to show the gelatine. This makes a pretty desert.

RICE FRITTERS.

One cup of cold boiled rice, one pint of flour, into which has been sifted two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one of salt, add two eggs beaten well, enough milk to make a thick batter. Fry like griddle cakes. Serve with maple syrup.

HOMINY MUFFINS.

Upon two tablespoonfuls of fine hominy pour a cupful of boiling water, simmer for 15 minutes, add a cupful of Indian meal stirred in slowly, and then add a cup and a half of boiling milk. When this mixture has got nearly cold stir two beaten eggs, two tablespoonfuls of flour, one of sugar, a teaspoonful each of salt and baking powder. Bake for 15 minutes in heated gem pans.

MOLASSES CAKE.

Beat one cup of sugar and one cup of butter to a cream, add three-quarters of a cup of molasses, two eggs beaten light, one cup of milk with one teaspoonful of soda dissolved in it, four cups of flour sifted with two teaspoonfuls of cream tartar. Mix all thoroughly together and add one cupful of currants washed, dried and dredged with flour, one cupful of raisins also dredged with flour, two teaspoonfuls of ground cinnamon and one of ground cloves, enough for two loaves.

ELSIE'S CAKE.

Beat the yolks and whites of four eggs separately, cream together one and a half cups of white sugar and one-half cup of butter, add one cup of milk, add three cups of flour, into which has been sifted three times, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Add any flavoring desired. Then after baked and cooled frost with white of an egg mixed with pulverized sugar and place halves of English walnuts on top about an inch apart. ELISABETH H. CLAY.

HOUSEHOLD HELPS.

WALNUT LAYER CAKE.

Beat to a cream two-thirds cup butter and one cup sugar, add the well-beaten yolks of four eggs, one cup of milk, and a saltspoon of salt, then two heaping cups of flour into which two teaspoonfuls baking powder have been sifted. Beat thoroughly. This should make four layers and will bake in 15 minutes. For the filling take two cups sugar and two tablesponfuls of water, put on the stove and boil 10 minutes; beat the whites of the four eggs to a stiff froth, remove your syrup from the fire and let cook five minutes; add the whites, beating fast to avoid cooking your eggs. Now, to one-half of this add one pound seedless raisins (washed and chopped), and to the other half one pound of walnuts, shelled and chopped, and place them between the layers. Frost the top of the cake, if desired, and lay on walnuts halved.

ROAST OYSTERS ON TOAST.

Toast some slices of bread. Wash and wipe some large fine oysters, spread as many as possible on each slice of toast, season with salt and pepper and plenty of bits of butter. Put in a hot oven until the edges of the oysters curl. Serve at once.

COMPOTE OF ORANGES.

Grate the rind lightly from the oranges, put it in a porcelain-lined saucepan with one pound of sugar and one cupful of water. Boil ten minutes, strain, and add the juice of one lemon. Peel half-dozen oranges, remove all of the white pith and divide in carpels. With a toothpick carefully remove the pips, doing this in such a way as to break the skin as little as possible. Draw the saucepan to the side of the fire, where the contents will barely simmer, and lay in as many of the carpels as possible, without placing them one on top of the other. Simmer very gently for 10 minutes, then drain them and place in the dish in which they are to be served. Repeat this until all are cooked, the nboil the syrup down to the hair and pour over the cooked fruit. Set away and serve very cool.

OYSTERS COOKED WITH RICE.

Pick over and wash thoroughly one pint of rice, put it in a deep dish, add one pint of oyster-liquor which has been scalded and strained. Set in a steamer, cover closely and cook until tender and the liquor is absorbed; stir into it while hot one-half cup of butter; beat two eggs very light and add them when the rice has partly cooled. Butter individual shells or patty pans and divide the rice among them. Press it down lightly, then with a spoon make three indentations, and in each indentation lay several oysters, dusting them with salt and pepper. Sprinkle with buttered crumbs, lay a few bits of butter over the top of each shell, and brown in a quick oven.

MACARONI.

Break one-quarter of a pound of macaroni in three-inch lengths and put into three pints of boiling salted water. Boil twenty minutes, or until soft. Drain in a colander and pour cold water through it to cleanse it and keep it from sticking. Now cut into inch pieces. Put into a shallow baking dish and cover with a white sauce made with one cup and a half of hot milk, one tablespoonful of butter, and one level tablespoonful of corn starch, and half a teaspoonful of salt, mix two-thirds of a cup of fine cracker crumbs with one-third of a cup of melted butter and sprinkle over the top. Bake until the crumbs are brown. If cheese be liked with it use half a cup of grated dry cheese.

CHICKEN SOUTHERN WAY.

Have a spider full of boiling fat (part butter and part lard), cut up a nice, tender chicken, salt, pepper and dust with flour; lay in pieces in the hot fat, cover and cook slowly until a golden brown. If gravy is desired, when the chicken is removed from the spider, pour in a cup of milk thickened with a little flour. Chicken should never be parboiled before frying, as it takes all the sweet nutriment out of the meat.

LEMON PIE WITH RAISINS.

Take three good sized lemons and oil until soft, squeeze the juice out a dish, picking out the seeds, and cho he peel very fine. Seed and chop a cu ul of raisins, and mix all together wit ie and one-half cups molasses; stir we d add a little flour and water. Do not y the baking or it will run out. This makes two pies. Bake with two crusts.

MOCK OYSTERS.

Two cupfuls of corn (cut the corn from the ear or use the canned corn), two beaten eggs, two tablespoonfuls of flour, enough to keep the egg and corn together, salt and pepper. If canned corn is used, add two tablespoonfuls of milk. Fry in small cakes in butter. When highly seasoned they have the flavor of oysters.

SAND TARTS.

One cup butter, one and one-half cups of sugar, three eggs, whites and yolks beaten separately, one tablesponful water, one-half teaspoonful baking powder, mixed in enough flour to make stiff enough to roll. Roll out thin, cut in squares, sprinkle sugar and cinnamon on top and bake.

BROILED CHICKEN.

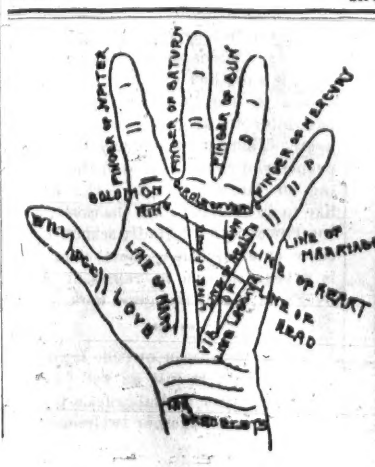

In order to have it juicy and more evenly done, the chicken should be steamed for at least one hour before broiling, after which the work of the broiler will be more effective, being less likely to be over done in some spots and under done in others.

ROAST CALF'S LIVER.

Wash thoroughly and wipe dry, cut a long, deep hole in the side, stuff with crumbs, bacon and onion, chopped fine, salt, pepper, bits of butter and one well beaten egg. Sew, or tie, together. Lard it over and bake. Serve with gravy and currant jelly.

FRENCH DRESSING.

One tablespoonful of vinegar, three of olive oil, one saltspoonful of salt, one of pepper, and a little scraped onion, if desired.

A Personal Word.

Recent events in the public life of some of Andover's esteemed citizens have not shaped themselves to the satisfaction of a few of our readers.

The columns of this paper have been open to the discussion of all sides and will continue to be so. That the editor has not agreed with some of his long time readers is something he sincerely regrets, but just as long as he is able, he will continue to rebuke public crookedness and falsehood, whovever is hit. Parties to some of the most despicable methods possible in dealing with public matters, have not felt comfortable under the coat of comment which they could not help putting on.

Behind all kinds of insinuation the editor of the TOWNSMAN has been for years the subject of attack by these very people who sought by such methods to blind the public to the real condition of affairs.

Our readers may be assured that there will never be an unkind word used in these columns if it can possibly be avoided. The only reason for referring to this matter at this time is the misconstruction placed upon comment in this column, by a few people whose good opinion we cherish.

The peace and unity that have been the prevailing forces in the conduct of the TOWNSMAN for twelve years, have often been maintained at the expense of the personal feelings of its editor, and the times have come but seldom when the patience has given way to reply. We sincerely hope they may come even less frequently in the coming days, when local unity and loyalty to town, are so much needed in advancing the town's best life and growth.

The First Sewer Protest.

The petition of residents in a particular section of the town, praying that they may not be put to the expense of a sewer tax, is the second chapter of the protest in the town meeting.

The sewerage system of Andover is like many other good things, a better preventive than cure. It may be that the people in the Summer street section have no trouble at this time in disposing of their sewage without having it seem a nuisance, but the nature of the soil all through that part of the town is such as to make it an assured fact that but few years will elapse before the sewer would be a necessity if it is not such already.

The Board of Public Works seem to have good ground to stand upon, in making this much to be benefitted part of the town, a part of the system that shall form a basis for the first abbutors' assessment.

The owners of property in this section, who object to the improvement, may feel the cost to be a serious burden, but those who have followed the course of public health in Andover the past few years will not be able to overlook that in no part of Andover has every kind of sickness and disease thrived more successfully than around the very houses where these petitioners live. We presume the addressing of the petition to the selectmen is an error; of course it should have gone to the Board of Public Works who have the sole charge of the water and sewer systems.

Editorial Cinders.

Cuban relief, by way of affording the starving Cubans the means to work with, is a method of relief that should appeal to every citizen who has the best interests of our new citizens at heart. There must be many interested people who could not attend the meeting on Tuesday evening, who would like to do something for the cause, and the TOWNSMAN will gladly acknowledge their subscriptions. Less than $25 is a beggarly sum to represent Andover's interest in this good work.

It looks to the men outside the fight as if it might be just as well for the opposing forces in Ballardvale to declare a truce for another twelve-month.

Workmen Entertain.

Lincoln Lodge, A. O. U. W. entertained their friends in the Town Hall last Friday evening. There were addresses in the early part of the evening, followed by dancing until a late hour, music being furnished by the Andover band orchestra.

The principal speaker of the evening was Past Supreme Master Workman, John S. Tate of Lincoln, Nebraska. He was eloquent and interesting. He dwelt upon the wonderful growth of the order which now has a membership of 360,000. He said the order was instituted in Oct. 1868 at Meadville, Penn., with thirteen members and out of that lodge as a nucleus the big order has grown. He commented upon the great work done all over the country and pointed out that the 170 members of Lincoln Lodge carry an insurance of $350,000. He referred to the fact that the lodge in Andover had already paid out $16,000 to its beneficiaries. Mr. Tate referred briefly to the war, stating that his son went to Cuba, and is now at Manila.

Past Master Workman Brown of Boston, assistant supervisor of the Boston district, talked on lodge topics concerning new England. His address was instructive and entertaining.

G. A. R. Reception

William F. Bartlett Post 99, G. A. R, Walter L. Raymond Camp S. of V., and the Woman's Relief corps gave a reception Monday evening to Senior Vice Commander Peter D. Smith and other department officers of the state G. A. R., Sons of Veterans and Relief corps, and to the associate members of W. F. Bartlett post.

The G. A. R. department officers present were Department Commander John E. Gilman, Senior Vice Commander Peter D. Smith, Junior Vice Commander Barden of Waltham and Assistant Adjutant General Edward Preble of Wilmington. The Relief corps was represented by Senior Vice President Mrs. John E. Gilman and Junior Vice President Mrs. Going. Division Commander Howard of Melrose represented the Sons of Veterans. All the visiting officers made a few remarks. For the post Dr. C. H. Gilbert made an address and Fr. Lynch and Judge George H. Poor responded for the associate members.

After the speaking there was a short musical entertainment, including selections by a quartet. Refreshments were served. The occasion was a most enjoyable one in every respect.

Ballardvale's Disgrace

Editor Andover Townsman,

Dear Sir:—

I searched the columns of last week's TOWNSMAN for some public expression of disapproval, on the part of the successful candidate for Selectman from the South District, of the disgraceful conduct of some of his supporters and sympathizers in hooting and yelling around the house of his opponent, and, later in the evening, in bombarding the house with stones, breaking a window, and giving a severe nervous shock to one of the lady members of the household who is in delicate health. I failed to find any such communication, and therefore as a citizen I desire to enter my protest against such actions, which are demoralizing to the moral tone of the community, particularly in their influence upon the young boys who joined in the last demonstration.

There are many of our citizens who hope that the time will come when we can celebrate a political victory, without making drunkards of our voters or rowdies of our boys. If we are to repeat this experience every year, then there are many of us who feel that the good people from the Centre District who are supporters of the present administration, had better nominate another candidate from that district and leave us without any representative on the board. In the interest of clean, self respecting citizenship, I am,

Yours truly,
WILLIAM SHAW.

Ballardvale, March 16, 1899.

In an interview in regard to the above complaint, Selectman Stark stated that he was not directly or indirectly interested in the affair. He was not in Ballardvale the night of town meeting and knew nothing of the affair until the next day. "The men may have voted for him, and may not. He certainly had no control of their actions. If the law was violated there was but one man to blame, and he the constable who had been chosen that day; and no one in Ballardvale could charge that his connivance came from any love or support of me."

Notice to Plumbers.

The attention of plumbers is called to chapter 455, acts of 1894 of the Public Statutes; and to the following vote of this Board, viz: on or before the 6th day of April, 1899, every master or employing plumber, and every journeyman plumber engaged in or working at the business of plumbing in the town of Andover, or desiring to engage in said business, shall personally register his name and address at the office of the Board of Health, and shall present his license if such has been granted, for registration or renewal.

Address on Henry Drummond.

The last regular meeting of the season of the Andover Burns Club was held last Saturday evening, and the members were fortunate in having the Rev. F. A. Wilson as the guest of the evening, who delivered a very instructive and interesting lecture on the late Prof. Henry Drummond.

After a few remarks as to the pleasure it gave him to have the honor and privilege of speaking to the club, Mr. Wilson commenced his lecture with a short yet comprehensive review of the parentage, early life and training, of Prof. Drummond. This was followed by a full and carefully arranged account of the life work and extensive travels in many foreign countries, which showed that Henry Drummond was always learning, and that wherever he went, or whatever he did, his great mind was at work, endeavoring to prove his wondrous theory of evolution, at least so far as it effects the Christian life. From the beginning to the end the lecture was listened to with rapt attention by a fairly good attendance of the members of the club, who, at the close of the lecture awarded the reverened gentleman a rising vote of thanks.

After remarks on the subject by several members, the meeting was closed, thus ending another very successful season.

Obituary.

JOSEPH COLE.

Joseph Cole, aged 16, died early Monday morning at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Cole of North Main Street. He was born July 31, 1882, at Harbor Grace, Newfoundland. The cause of death was consumption. The deceased had been ill for some time and had been gradually failing for many months. He bore his suffering with great patience. Until his sickness prevented he had been employed in the Tyer rubber factory.

The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon at the Baptist church at 2 o'clock. Rev. Frank R. Shipman and the pastor officiating. Miss Alice M. Stone sang a solo. Floral tributes were many and beautiful, and in spite of the storm there was a large attendance. The bearers were four boy friends of the deceased, Timothy Pasho, William Haggerty, Roy Snow and John Lawson. Burial was in Spring Grove cemetery.

On that stormiest of Sundays, the last Sunday of November 1898, Joe Cole was one of the twelve persons who attended services at the Baptist Church, he being present at both the Sunday school session and the Young Peoples' Meeting. A week later his last illness came on with a hemorrhage; and he never left the house again until loving friends, last Wednesday afternoon, carried him out and to his "long home."

GEORGE KINGMAN.

George Kingman, a former well known resident of town, dropped dead last Monday evening in Haverhill, as he was returning from his work, shortly after six o'clock. He was a man highly respected by his large circle of friends and by all who knew him. He has resided in Haverhill for twenty-three years. When in Andover he was for seven years chorister at the South church. He was a member of the South Christian church of Haverhill and was beloved for his faithful service and Christian helpfulness to those about him. He leaves a widow, three sons and one daughter.

The funeral was held at his late residence, 37 Hancock Street, yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

HENRY O. BURNHAM.

Many friends in Andover will hear with regret of the death of Henry O. Burnham formerly of this town, which occurred last Tuesday at his home in Malden.

Mr. Burnham resided in Andover for many years and made many friends here. He was a member of Post 99 and had an honorable record in the civil war. For several years he has made his home with his daughter in Malden.

Deceased leaves a widow and four children, all of whom are well known, the elder being a former singer in Andover, now Mrs. Nellie wife of Mr. Merrow of Providence, Mrs. Kate Josselyn of Malden, Geo. B., the junior partner in the J. H. Horne's Sons works, Lawrence, and Mrs. Louise the wife or Geo. A. Tyler of South Boston.

Opposed to the Sewer.

A petition has been presented to the board of selectmen, protesting against the extension of the sewer on Elm Street and Washington Avenue.

The petition is as follows:

We, the undersigned, real estate owners on Elm Street and Washington Avenue, believing that the proposed sewer construction on these streets is unnecessary, and protesting against its extension past so much unoccupied land, thereby increasing the burden of taxes, do hereby petition your Honorable Board to defer the same until some future time when an increased population shall require such extension.

The petition is signed by the following: S. B. Locke, Anna D. Foster, Frances E. Chandler, Omar P. Chase, Herbert F. Chase, William G. Goldsmith, Blanche L. Cummings, Mrs. William Dickinson, E. R. Foster, Mrs. Moses Foster, Mrs. Charles O. Cummings, James Marshall, George R. Caldwell, William Lunan, Hannah E. Whittier, Benjamin F. Wardwell.

Townsman Directory.

Three years ago the TOWNSMAN publisher began the work of an Andover directory. Before it was completed the pressure of business for the 250th Anniversary compelled its abandonment and rather than have the work issued full of errors the sheets were destroyed and the publication was deferred.

The work has now been started again and before May 1st we hope to publish the first number of what is thought to be the only complete directory ever published for Andover. The book will contain, not only a full list of names of residents but also a map of the town that will be a guide to every house in the town.

Lists of organizations, and general information will be added to make the work a complete directory of everything that pertains to the town. All suggestions to make the work more valuable will be gladly received.

No District Court Yet.

The trial justice court at Andover will not be abolished at present. The committee on judiciary of the state legislative has reported adversely on the bill to establish a district court at Lawrence to include North Andover, Methuen and Andover.

A lengthy hearing on the bill was held last week, the petitioners being represented by Charles A. DeCourcy, president of the Lawrence Bar Association, which was the prime mover in the matter. Protests from all these towns won the day and the committee granted the petitioners leave to withdraw.

Greece has been basking in the presence of geniuses of late. Another London club for women has a smoking room for its members. The Pioneer club was literally the pioneer in this direction, and when it opened its smoking room seven or eight years ago the foundations of society trembled. Other women's clubs have followed that example, however, until now, when the latest one, the Writer's club does so there is practically no comment at all.

Adelina Patti has been spending her honeymoon in Rome. Last year at this time, she was putting in a season of mourning for the late Nicolini. The mourning was done at San Remo where she and her tiny Chihuahua dog, both smothered in crepe were conspicuous features of the bright Italian landscape. Those who have seen her this year, driving on the the Pincio wearing "a lovely pink toque" and carrying a coquettish white parasol," say that honeymooning becomes her infinitely better than mourning.

PEMBERTON BANK CASE.

The case of the Pemberton National bank vs. Field was taken up in the superior civil court Tuesday afternoon.

Congressman Knox stated the action was to determine who has better title to land on Summer and Newbury streets. The value is from $10,000 to $12,000. Both parties claim title through Gladys Jewett, wife of William S. Jewett. It was bought by Mr. Jewett and they lived there for some years. The property is claimed by the bank on a court judgment on a note for $5000 given by Mr. Jewett and which execution was issued in 1895. The bank won. An encumbrance was a mortgage of $7000. All the value to be regained is in excess of this amount.

In 1891 Mr. Jewett was engaged in exploiting bank stock. He obtained control of the Pemberton bank and became an active man there. He then borrowed $15,000 on his own notes. By law this was all he could borrow as the stock was $150,000. He also borrowed $5000 on his wife's note. This is the note in question. For two or more years the bank was carried on and was running down. Then the Arlington was started and bought the Pemberton. It paid Mr. Jewett exactly what the books showed. All the stockholders were paid in full as were all the creditors.

In estimating the value of the Pemberton bank were these four notes. Mr. Jewett said they would be paid in 60 days and they were taken for full face value, and he got $20,000. This was on Jan. 1, 1893. Mr. Jewett paid the interest up to January 1894.

Here Mr. Knox stated Mr. Jewett's note was for $8000, but $3000 had been paid.

When the interest was not paid in 1894 the bank asked Mr. Jewett for it. In 1895 much pressure was brought to bear.

In July proceedings were begun. It had been believed that the property was unncumbered, but a record of a mortgage to Herbert W. Fields on July 12, 1895, was shown. It was dated in 1892 and for three and a half years never appeared on record, and all this time was claimed valid. The mortgage was for $5000 and on this property.

We shall claim that this was not in good faith and a fraud between the parties and not a valid title, continued Mr. Knox.

We shall call attention to four of the instruments. We shall show that Jewett went into insolvency in 1895, that Mr. Jewett was always insolvent. We shall show that Feild borrowed later from Jewett. There is no question that between Field and Jewett that Field would have the better title, but as between Field and the bank, the bank has.

Mr. Jewett, Mr. Field, Mr. Butler and Mr. Aldred were then sworn.

A certificate of the comptroller of the currency that the Pemberton bank was organized, was submitted as evidence. It was dated April 25, 1865. The certificate granting authority to extend 20 years was then submitted.

A certificate copy of a writ of attachment dated August 1, 1895, against Gladys Jewett was submitted. A copy of the note and endorsements was submitted. The judgment for $5981.66 was issued. Records of the sale to the Pemberton bank were then used.

WILL ERECT BUILDING.

A. A. Lamprey, who has purchased a valuable lot of land on the south side of Essex street west of Hampshire street, will build on the site, although his plans as to the details of the building have not yet been fully determined. The structure will be of brick and probably six stories in height. One plan under consideration is to fit up the building as a hotel and a possible tenant has already begun negotiations with Mr. Lamprey. Another plan is to arrange the structure for stores and offices.

COUNCIL ACTS.

The common council last evening refused to concur with the aldermen in the adoption of the order appropriating $1500 for repairs on engine 4 company's house, Morton street. The sentiment of the opposition was that money thus spent would be practically wasted.

Numerous orders were introduced, one of which, submitted by Councilman Smith provides that regular firemen shall have one day off in ten. Councilman Spinlow introduced a request for a conference of the mayor and city solicitor with the street railway management to ascertain what steps would be taken by the latter toward constructing a line on Prospect hill.

HER LEG BROKEN.

Mrs. Hannah Gallagher while walking along Hampshire street Monday night slipped and fell on the sidewalk in the vicinity of Oak street. She was removed into Dr. McEvoy's office where it was found that her leg was broken. She was later taken to the hospital in a hack. Mrs. Galagher is well advanced in years and her injury is very serious.

A BOLD ATTEMPT.

LYNN, March 20—A daring attempt to render unconscious a young woman and rob a store was made in this city Saturday night, but it was not until yesterday afternoon that the police were notified, the proprietor of the establishment stating he was too busy to report to the police before.

Tactics new in such outrages in this vicinity were tried and they were unsuccessful but only because of the timely appearance of D. K. Wakefield, the proprietor of the bakery, 31 Summer street, where the affair occurred.

Miss May Ducette, the cashier, was confronted by two men, shortly after 8. The street was crowded with people and several customers had just left the store but when the men entered there was nobody in the front part of the store but the young woman, Mr. Wakefield having gone to a rear room.

They asked her if she did not want to buy some headache powders, and as the question was asked one of the men took a small phial from his pocket and thrust it under Miss Ducette's nose and at the same time spilled some of the contents, a white powder resembling flour, on her dress.

Immediately pains began to rack her head. She was unable to cry out, as every time she tried to breathe the fumes from the powder almost overpowered her. She noticed that one of the men placed his hands on the counter as if he was about to jump over, and then she saw Mr. Wakefield approaching. The men immediately bolted for the door. On the outside they were joined by a third man, and all three ran toward Market street and escaped from view.

For several hours Miss Ducette suffered from inhaling the fumes of the substance in the phial, and this morning she has had terrible pains in her head. The police have made an effort to ascertain the name of the stuff, but have been unable. The inspectors think it was concentrated ammonia.

One of the three men had been seen around the store during the day. There was considerable money in the cash drawer, but the men did not get at it.

The man who threw the stuff on her is described by Miss Ducette as about 22 years old, 5 feet 9, weighing about 160 pounds and with smooth face. His companions were about the same age, but shorter and wore dark clothes, mustaches and derby hats.

LIEUT. LITTLE RESIGNS.

SALEM, March 20—Lieut. David M. Little, quartermaster of the 2nd corps of cadets, has tendered his resignation and received his discharge.

He was appointed quartermaster March 16, 1898, and during the Spanish-American war served as ordnance officer of the state, having charge of the distribution of state ordnance along the coast.

His resignation was on account of pressure of business.

Catarrh is Not Incurable

But it can not be cured by sprays, washes and inhaling mixtures which reach only the surface. The disease is in the blood, and can only be reached through the blood. S. S. S. is the only remedy which can have any effect upon Catarrh; it cures the disease permanently and forever rids the system of every trace of the vile complaint.

Miss Josie Owen, of Montpelier, Ohio, writes: "I was afflicted from infancy with Catarrh, and no one can know the suffering it produces better than I. The sprays and washes prescribed by the doctors relieved me only temporarily, and though I used them constantly for ten years, the disease had a firmer hold than ever. I tried a number of blood remedies, but their mineral ingredients settled in my bones and gave me rheumatism. I was in a lamentable condition, and after exhausting all treatment, was declared incurable. Seeing S. S. S. advertised as a cure for blood diseases, I decided to try it. As soon as my system was under the effect of the medicine, I began to improve, and after taking it for two months I was cured completely, the dreadful disease was eradicated from my system, and I have had no return of it."

Many have been taking local treatment for years, and find themselves worse now than ever. A trial of will prove it to be the right remedy for Catarrh. It will cure the most obstinate case.

George Gutterson, formerly well known in this town, was in the employ of Frank Kimball whose stable was destroyed by fire in Georgetown last Wednesday night entailing a loss of $15,000 and burning 11 horses. Gutterson was night man in the stable and was asleep when the fire broke out. He was awakened by a dog and found the rear of the building in flames. He did what was possible to save a portion of the property and in so doing was badly burned himself. The fire is believed to have been of incendiary origin.

The monthly meeting of the school committee was held at the rooms Monday night the full board being present. The subject of transferring several of the teachers from the rooms they now occupy to others for the good of the service, was discussed but no definite action was taken. Superintendent White recommended engaging a special teacher for department work, and the committee voted to employ one to be placed in the East side school building. The room of Miss Ryder on the lower floor will be divided by running a partition east and west and the new teacher will occupy one of the rooms. She will be available for any school in town (at different times of course) but will devote much of her time to the eighth and ninth grades with pupils who are a little backward. No selection of a teacher for this work was made however. Action on the resignation of Truant Officer A. B. Gordon was laid over until the next meeting. Sundry bills contracted during the month were approved which concluded the business of the meeting.

LIVELY DEBATE.

Some 250 voters turned out to the adjourned session of the anual town meeting in the Methuen town hall Saturday afternoon and as on the preceding Saturday there were a number of ladies who occupied seats in the gallery. The disagreeable stormy weather however had prevented the farmers coming out in any considerable numbers and the outside districts were but meagrely represented.

The meeting was called to order at 2 o'clock by Moderator Granville E. Foss and the business was taken up where it was left off at the first session of the meeting, viz: Art. 28—By request of George M. Phippen to see if the town will vote to instruct the school committee to arrange a course of free lectures and place the town hall at their disposal for the same.

The school commitete did not wish to undertake the responsibility for the lectures and objection was raised on account of the probable expense that would be incurred. The article was changed to read that the lectures should be given under the direction of a committee of citizens and with this change it was passed.

The next article number 29, "by request of George M. Phippen to see if the town would vote to instruct the water commissioners to erect and maintain one or more fountains of cooled water during the heated term and appropriate $100 for the same," was passed over as was article 30 also "by request of Geo. M. Phippen to see if the town would choose a committee to investigate the principles of the labor exchange as applied to public works and report at some future meeting."

Then came the lively part of the meeting. William D. Hartshorne offered a resolution asking for the reconsideration of the vote on article 26 taken the week before. This was the article which asked for the acceptance of the provisions of chapter 455 of the acts of 1894 relating to the licensing of plumbers and the appointment of an inspector of plumbing and was passed by a large majority vote at the first meeting after a lively discussion. The request of Mr. Hartshorne aroused another debate in which John T. Mannifield who opposed reconsideration was pitted against Judge Rogers, Frank Buckminster, Alfred Newsholme, Joseph E. Buswell and George B. Dumas. Mr. Mannifield's arguments were strong and to the point. He argued for the protection of the homes of the wives and families from sickness, which was, he said, too often caused by defective plumbing put in by irresponsible contractors, which might be avoided if there were an inspector. He spoke forcibly for the matter to stand where left at the previous meeting but his opponents carried too many guns for him and the motion to reconsider was carried by a yea and nay vote and it was then voted to pass over the article.

A question of the legality of the vote has arisen however as the by-laws plainly state that a vote to reconsider former action unless taken within an hour of such action must be a two-thirds vote and although this fact was called to the attention of Moderator Foss by Mr. Mannifield, he refused to call for a hand vote and declared the motion carried on a yea and nay vote. It is claimed that on account of the existing by-laws the town clerk cannot record a vote for reconsideration except as specified, without giving the number voting pro and con and legal advice will be asked to decide the matter. It is the opinion of many leading citizens including ex-town officers that the vote as declared was not legal.

After the matter had been settled however by the moderator's decision, Frank Buckminster offered another resolution requesting the committee on sewerage to ascertain from the Lawrence authorities if better terms could be obtained for the town for the privilege of entering the city's sewers. The resolution was unanimously adopted.

Article 31—To see if the town would vote to pay the estate of Mrs. Cyrus Blood $70 for land taken in laying out a street off Summer street, was passed over.

Streets laid out by the selectmen were accepted as follows: Ingalls' court leading off Broadway, Quincy street, Kendall street, Boylston street, Ashford street and Eustis street all in the Currier district and Williams street leading off Central street.

By request of Frederick E. Lorenz, the highway surveyor was instructed to repair the streets in the Currier district, $300 to be taken from the regular street appropriation for that purpose. It was also voted to widen and repair River street from Union to Osgood street and build a fence along the river bank, the money to be taken from the regular appropriation.

Voted to locate a fire alarm box at the corner of Lawrence and Tenney streets and appropriate $250 for the same.

Voted to purchase a hose reel, 500 feet of hose and to erect a building for the same for the benefit of the residents of the Currier district. Two hundred and fifty dollars was appropriated for this purpose.

The remaining articles in the warrant 41 to 49 inclusive, all of which were petitions for street lights in different sections of the town were referred to the committee appointed a year ago to rearrange the lighting system with discretionary powers.

It was voted on motion of C. Dudley Holman to instruct the committee on sewers to have their report printed and ready for distribution a week at least before the date of the town meeting at which the report was to be acted upon.

The business of the meeting was completed and the meeting adjourned shortly before 4.30 o'clock.

COUNTY NOTES.

The Lynn liquor squad captured nine men playing poker while raiding Saturday. The squad also successfully raided a number of kitchen barrooms.

Capt. and Mrs. Benjamin A. Adams of Lynn celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Saturday. Capt. Adams has sailed around the world several times and served in the Civil war.

Irene Bourque, seven years of age, was fatally burned in Lynn Saturday while playing with fire. Her grandmother extinguished theb laze, but not before the child had been terribly burned.

The board of aldermen of Gloucester has ordered an investigation of the police department. Alderman Donahue stated at a recent meeting of the board that policemen were in league with rumsellers.

The police department of Lynn has officially apologized to Dr. Marston of that city. The liquor squad raided a house in which Dr. Marston was attending a patient and attempted to enforce his removal.

Mrs. Gordon S. Howe of Haverhill was among those who had narrow escapes from the Hotel Windsor fire in New York. She, with two unknown women, was preparing to take a Turkish bath, when the fire broke out. Mrs. Howe rushed out, losing part of her wardrobe and getting several burns and bruises. It is not known if her companions escaped.

The friction of a loose pulley on a shaft caused a fire in the shoe factory owned by Joseph Breed & Sons, Lynn, Saturday afternoon. The fire did about $6000 damage, divided upon the occupants of the building as follows: Charles F. Frye, shoe manufacturer, $5000; Charles B. Oliver and William H. McFarlane & Co., $800. The damage to the building amounted to $300.

Ten survivors of the party which sailed from Salem, March 17, 1849, in the barque La Grange for California among whom was Dr. Levi Saunders of Lanesville, were enterained by Richard Harrington of Salem, one of the number on Friday last, the fiftieth anniversary of the date of sailing. Dr. Saunders was one of the speakers at the after dinneer exercises. Only about a dozen remain of the original party of 65.

Mrs. Eliza W. Foss of Wilfboro, N. H., is seriously ill at the residence of George Ham in Haverhill suffering from asphyxiation. Sunday morning she was found unconscious. An examination showed that she had failed to turn off the gas jet. The escaping gas filled her room. Its odor was detected by the inmates of the house. When discovered she was in a dangerous condition, but revived during the day and was able to sit up yesterday. Her condition is serious, but not critical.

George A. Wright of Newburyport, left home yesterday morning to go to work. Mrs. Wright had also gone out washing leaving two children in bed. About 8 o'clock John, the 11-year-old boy, smelled smoke and went downstairs to investigate. When he got to the kitchen he found the wooden casing around the firepiace on fire. He set at work putting it out, and he succeeded in doing so. The fire had got such a headway that all the paint in the room was blistered, and an old-fashioned chair that stood near the fire place was totally destroyed.

UNDER SUSPICIOUS CIRCUMSTANCES.

LYNN, March 20—Patrick Tangney, about 40 years of age, residing in this city, was found dead at the boarding house of A. K. Allen, 24 Pearl street, yesterday morning about 8 o'clock.

As near as can be learned Tangney called to see Mr. Allen about 9.30 Saturday night and remained only a short time. He was under the influence of liquor and it is presumed that he fell down a flight of stairs leading to the cellar and fractured his skull, from which he died a few hours afterwards.

Several occupants of the house heard the groans and not realizing that he had been seriously hurt, or investigating to learn whether he had or not, they allowed him to remain there until yesterday morning when the police were notified, and the body was removed to Haven & McGovern's undertaking rooms. Medical Examiner Pinkham pronounced death due to a fracture of the skull.

Tangney is married though he is said to have lived apart from his family for several years.

DEATH DUE TO HEART DISEASE.

HAVERHILL, March 20—George Kingman dropped dead early this evening on Washington street. The deceased was a well known aged resident, and was returning home from work when he fell to the sidewalk and instantly expired. Death was due to heart disease. He left a wife and two sons

HELD OFFICE ILLEGALLY.

HAVERHILL, March 20—It is claimed that City Physician Clarke has been holding his office for three years illegally having been appointed each time instead of having been elected, as required. Mayor Chase, acting under the advice of City Solicitor Newell, has now declared the office vacant and ordered a joint convention of the city council tomorrow evening to elect a successor.
